Orphanages in America

Truth about modern orphanages in the U.S?

- 424,000 children are living in the U.S. foster care system and the number has been rising. Over 122,000 of these children are eligible for adoption and they will wait, on average, four years.
- the U.S. foster care system, and a majority left without the emotional and financial support necessary to succeed in life that other children can receive within a family.
- 70% of all youth in foster care have the desire to attend college, yet nearly 25% of youth aging out did not have a high school diploma or GED and only a mere 6% had finished a two- or four-year degree
